French Bulldog Food Allergies Checklist

Common signs owners may notice

- My French Bulldog scratches or bites at the skin often
- My French Bulldog licks or chews the paws
- My French Bulldog rubs the face or muzzle
- My French Bulldog has red or irritated skin
- My French Bulldog gets recurring ear infections
- My French Bulldog shakes the head or scratches the ears
- My French Bulldog licks the belly or groin often
- My French Bulldog has skin odor or greasy skin
- My French Bulldog has rashes, crusts, or hair loss
- My French Bulldog has vomiting, soft stool, or diarrhea along with skin signs
- The symptoms seem to come and go, or never fully settle
- The problem keeps returning even with parasite control
- I cannot tie the symptoms to one obvious cause

If several of these signs are happening, French Bulldog food allergies are one possibility, but environmental allergies, flea allergy, and skin infection can look very similar. A veterinarian is needed to confirm the cause.
